Indigenous Wealth helps Grant & Jacquie get ahead

Grant and Jacquie Savage wanted to make more of Grant's super and have more control over their future. But they asked a few advisers for help and were told it was all too complex.

Then, Grant's mum saw Indigenous Wealth on Facebook and suggested he give them a call. And the rest is history. Today, Grant and Jacquie have their first investment property. Bought off the plan in 2021, it had already increased in value by the time it was ready in 2022.

"I had heard of some friends doing an SMSF and buying property with their super, and it seemed like a good way to build wealth and get ahead a bit," Grant says.

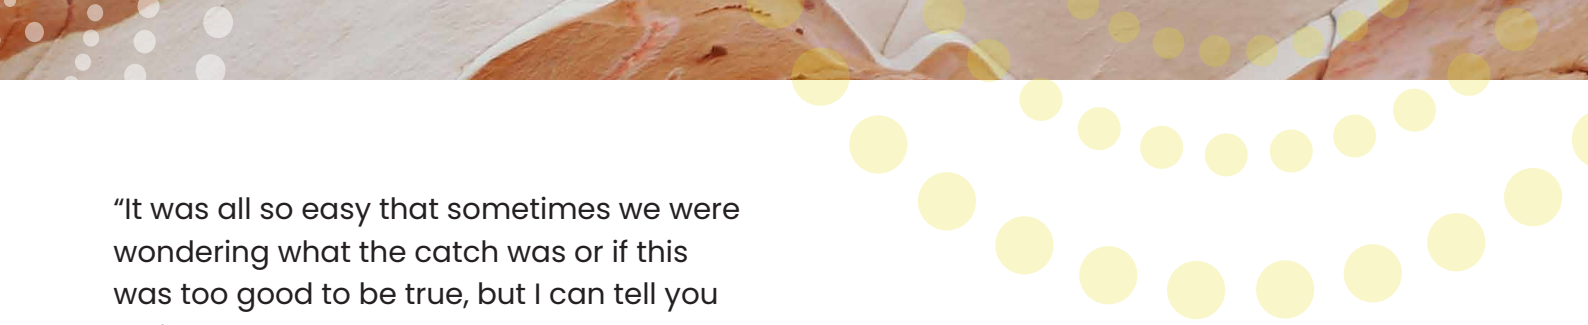

But with everyone he asked telling him it was too complex, he couldn't find a way in. Then, he and Jacquie called Indigenous Wealth.

In their first conversation, Grant remembers Brad saying simply, 'Let's do it'. And as Jacquie puts it, Brad and Indigenous Wealth 'made it happen' for the pair.

Indigenous Wealth helped them get their SMSF set up, taking care of all the requirements and introducing them to specialist advisers, including trusted legal and mortgage brokers, to prepare everything for their investment property purchase.

"He made it all happen for us from start to finish," says Jacquie. "It was incredible. We felt so supported, and Brad just got everything done. He was reachable whenever we had questions and even came to Queensland to meet us."

“It was all so easy that sometimes we were wondering what the catch was or if this was too good to be true, but I can tell you Indigenous Wealth does exactly what they say they will do.”

And for Grant and Jacquie, actions speak louder than words.

After helping with SMSF set-up, Brad set to work finding suitable properties for the pair. Jacquie explains that he gave them investment property options across the country. They ultimately chose the one closest to their home on the Gold Coast because it was an area they knew.

In 2021, they bought off the plan, and by the time it was built in 2022, it had already increased in value.

“

“It would be hard to make that sort of money any other way,” says Jacquie. “So, it’s been a great start for us and something we can build on for the future. It’s really going to help us for our retirement.”

At 40, Grant says he wishes he knew more about how to grow wealth in his younger years, but he’s happy to be on the pathway now.

“It would have been good to start this earlier and realise I could do this too, but I’m happy to have started, and I would like to build to three properties within my super and even look at Airbnb-type rentals next.”

Jacquie adds that they have been so impressed they’ve already recommended Indigenous Wealth to friends who want to make more of their super.

“

“We want other people to know they can invest in property and that Indigenous Wealth will look after them and make it so easy.”
